

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A device for exciting modes in a fiber optic waveguide onto whose entry face part of a beam of a light source is directed, wherein another part of the beam of the light source is deflected onto the entry face via a reflector, and an interference
5 pattern for the excitation of various modes is produced at the entry face.